Who is Queen Elizabeth II?

Elizabeth Alexandra Mary, later to become Queen Elizabeth II, was born on 21st April 1926 in Mayfair, London.

She was the first child of The Duke and Duchess of York, who later became King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

The Queen's birthday is officially celebrated in Britain on the second Saturday of June each year. This special day is referred to as 'The Trooping the Colour'.

The Queen is also known as the British Sovereign.

Elizabeth's Family

In 1936, King Edward VIII stepped down from the throne.

Elizabeth's father was crowned King George VI. Her mother became Queen Elizabeth and Elizabeth and her sister Margaret were now princesses (all in the photo below).

Elizabeth's Youth

Princess Elizabeth was taught at home, not at school. She studied art and music and enjoyed drama and swimming.

When she was 11, she joined the Girl Guides.

Elizabeth undertook her first public engagement on her 16th birthday, when she inspected the soldiers of the Grenadier Guards.

During the Second World War, Elizabeth served in the army as a mechanic.

The Royal Family

Elizabeth got married in Westminster Abbey on 20th November 1947, when she was 21 years old.

Her husband Prince Philip, also known as the Duke of Edinburgh, was the son of Prince Andrew of Greece.

In 1948, the Queen's first child, Prince Charles, was born.

Two years later, Princess Anne was born. Elizabeth would go on to have two more children: Prince Andrew in 1960 and Prince Edward in 1964.

Elizabeth Becomes Queen

In 1952, when she was just 25, Elizabeth's father, King George VI, died. Elizabeth was in Kenya when she heard the sad news. She immediately returned home and it was decided that Elizabeth would be queen.

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II's coronation took place in 1953 at Westminster Cathedral in London. The Queen celebrated her Golden Jubilee, 50 years since her accession to the throne, in 2002 and her Diamond Jubilee, marking 60 years since her accession, in 2012.

The Role of the Queen

The Queen does not govern the country. However, she does carry out many important tasks on behalf of the nation.

- The Queen is Head of the Church of England. She appoints Bishops and Archbishops on the advice of the Prime Minister.
- The Queen is Head of the Armed Forces, and is the only person who can declare and end war with other countries.
- The Queen must remain impartial in matters of Government and is not allowed to vote. However, she meets weekly with the Prime Minister and opens Parliament, amongst other duties.

Representing the Country

As Head of State, the Queen travels abroad on official state visits. She also invites other Heads of State from around the world to visit the U.K.

The Queen represents the country at times of celebration or sorrow. One of her most important duties is on Remembrance Sunday, when the Queen lays a wreath at the Cenotaph in London to remember members of the armed forces who have died fighting for their country.

The Queen and the Commonwealth

The Commonwealth is a group of 54 countries, almost all of which were formerly under British rule as part of the British Empire.

After becoming independent, many countries decided that they still wanted to remain within the Commonwealth. The Queen is Head of the Commonwealth and, during her reign, has made more than 200 trips abroad to visit Commonwealth countries.

The Commonwealth Games is an international, multi-sport event which involves athletes from Commonwealth Countries. The Queen often attends the games to open or close them.

The Platinum Jubilee

In 2022, the Queen celebrates her Platinum Jubilee.

The Platinum Jubilee celebrates 70 years on the throne. No other British monarch has reached this milestone!

People in the UK have been given an extra Bank Holiday to celebrate the Jubilee and a wide range of events are planned.

The last major Jubilee was held in 2012 for The Queen's Diamond Jubilee, marking 60 years as Queen. There were events held around the country, including concerts, street parties and river pageants.

A Long-Serving Monarch

On 9th September 2015, The Queen became the longest-reigning British monarch, surpassing her great-great-grandmother Queen Victoria, who reigned for 63 years and seven months.

In the words of the National Anthem, the Queen certainly is “long to reign over us”.

The National Anthem

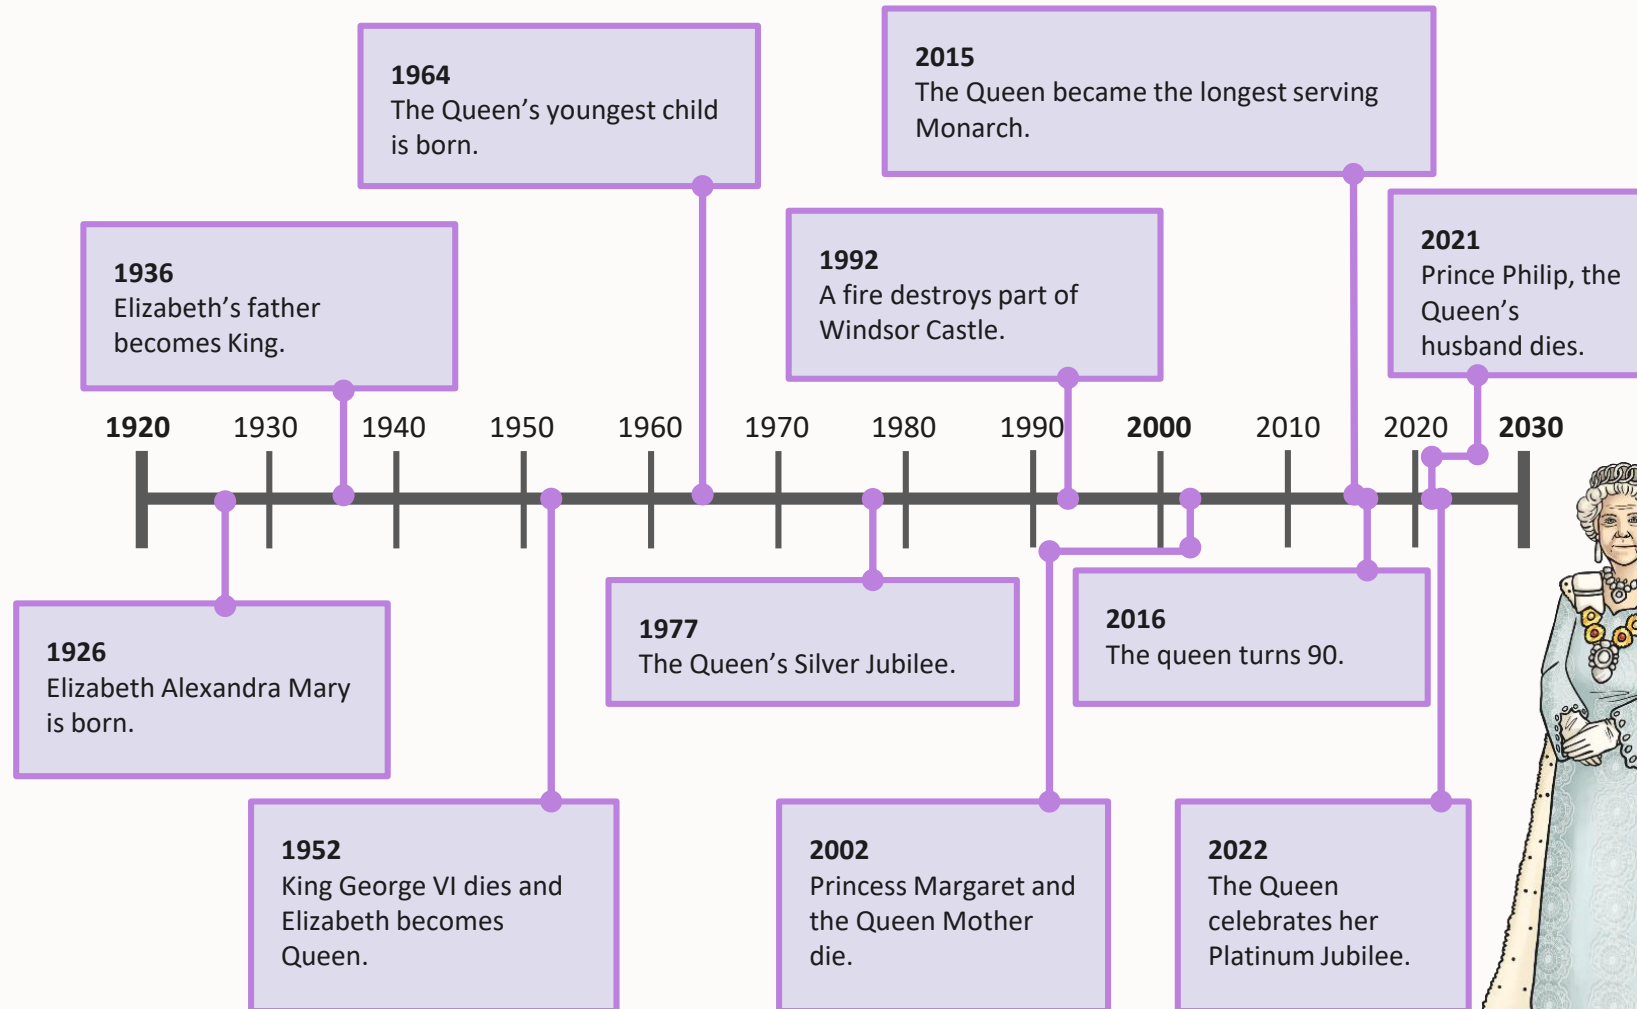

'God Save the King' was a patriotic song first performed in London in 1745.
Today, it is known as the National Anthem.

God save our gracious Queen!
Long live our noble Queen!
God save the Queen!
Send her victorious,
Happy and glorious,
Long to reign over us,
God save the Queen.
